Unveiled in a striking Arancio Xanto (orange) paint, the Huracán EVO Coupé features the 5.2 l naturally-aspirated Lamborghini V10 engine, updated to produce higher power output and an emotional and powerful sound, with Titanium intake valves and refined lightweight exhaust system. The distinctive design defines the aerodynamic superiority and enhanced driving dynamics of the Huracán EVO Coupé. A new front bumper gives the car a low, assertive personality, but more importantly assures aerodynamic efficiency via the front splitter with integrated wing. Distinctively, the enlarged air intakes feature the Ypsilon shape that is inherent in Lamborghini design DNA. The Huracán EVO Coupé features new Lamborghini rear-wheel steering and a torque vectoring system working on the four wheels, while at the heart of the car is the new feature of Lamborghini Dinamica Veicolo Integrata (LDVI): a Central Processing Unit that controls every aspect of the car's dynamic behavior to assure perfect driving dynamics.

The Huracán EVO Spyder was presented in stunning Verde Selvans (green), shined in its exquisite lines of a sensational convertible. The Spyder incorporates all the performance, next-generation vehicle control and aerodynamic features of the EVO coupé, with its own unique personality and a driving excitement that only an open-top car can offer. Particularly with the roof open, the emotive sound of the naturally aspirated engine and the refined, lightweight exhaust system take the sensory experience to a new level, delivering a truly passionate driving experience.

The new sporty and elegant trim of Huracán EVO Coupé and Spyder feature a number of bi-color and trim options as well as a highly sportive Alcantara option. Lightweight materials such as Carbon Forged Composites and Lamborghini's patented Carbon Skin are available on request, and are highlighted by the new customizable ambient lights feature within the cabin. With Lamborghini's Ad Personam program, owners can customize their Lamborghini in virtually limitless opportunity.
