Lamborghini Squadra Corse announces 2025 Super Trofeo calendars

Eighteen race weekends across the globe for the single-make Huracán Super Trofeo EVO2 series

Sant'Agata Bolognese, 13 October 2024 – Lamborghini Squadra Corse has unveiled the finalised regional Super Trofeo calendars for the 2025 season, with 36 races set to take place across three championships and 11 different countries.

The longest running Lamborghini one-make championship, Super Trofeo Europe makes its return to the Fanatec GT World Challenge Europe support bill, organised by SRO Motorsports Group after four rounds with the Automobile Club de l'Ouest (ACO) in 2024. The season kicks off with the opening round at Circuit Paul Ricard in Le Castellet at the start of April before heading to Monza for the first time since 2021 on the final weekend of May. The championship then resumes its place on the support bill of the Spa 24 Hours at the end of June, the Belgian venue continuing the tradition of featuring on every Super Trofeo Europe calendar since the series' inception in 2009. The Nürburgring in Germany is scheduled to host round four of the year at the end of August, with Barcelona remaining on the schedule for the solitary trip to Spain in October. The season then concludes with the sixth and final round at a yet-to-be-confirmed venue, which will also host the traditional end-of-season Lamborghini World Finals.

Across the Pond, the North American championship returns for its 13th season of competition with a largely unchanged schedule, with Sebring International Raceway again the venue for the first round of the year. Once again featuring on the support bill of the 12 Hours of Sebring, a round of the IMSA WeatherTech Sports Car Championship, Lamborghini Super Trofeo North America remains a staple of the US motorsport scene. After Sebring, round two will be held at Laguna Seca in California before making its way to upstate New York in the summer where Watkins Glen will host round three. Round four will take place at a yet-to-be-announced venue. Like in 2024, the penultimate round will be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, using the road course before the final round and World Finals.

Following another successful season in 2024, where it achieved a record grid at the opening round, Lamborghini Super Trofeo Asia aims to continue its momentum in 2025, with another packed calendar comprising of six rounds in six different countries. The season will kick off in Australia for the first time, with the historic Sydney Motorsport Park the venue for round one. The popular FIA Grade 2 circuit regularly hosts the Supercars Australia championship and will surely provide an exciting spectacle. Then it's onto Shanghai in China for round two on the weekend of 16-18 May, having returned to the calendar in 2024 following a four-year absence. Japan then plays host to round three a fortnight later at the Fuji International Speedway, while the Inje Speedium in South Korea takes its place on the calendar at the end of July. Having previously held the season opener place in the calendar, Sepang in Malaysia moves to a September slot for 2025 for round five.

All three Lamborghini Super Trofeo seasons will conclude at a neutral venue which will also host the traditional end-of-year Lamborghini World Finals. The date and location of the 2025 Finals will be
