

2026 Lamborghini Super Trofeo Asia, Europe and North America calendars unveiled

The category reserved for the Huracán Super Trofeo EVO2 to contest 36 races at 16 of the world's most iconic venues around the globe

Sant'Agata Bolognese, 17 October 2025 – Lamborghini Squadra Corse has unveiled the provisional calendars for the 2026 Super Trofeo Europe, Asia and North America seasons. Reaffirming its long-standing partnerships with SRO Motorsports Group and IMSA, the European and North American championships remain largely unchanged while the Asian series returns to Thailand for the first time since 2018.

In total, the three regional championships reserved for the Lamborghini Huracán Super Trofeo EVO2 will contest 36 races over approximately 1,800 minutes, visiting three continents and 11 different countries. The 2026 season will also mark the final full season for the Huracán Super Trofeo before being replaced by the new Temerario Super Trofeo for the following year.

Lamborghini Super Trofeo Europe

The 18th edition of the European championship which first started in 2009 will begin with a pair of 50-minute races at the Circuit Paul Ricard in the south of France on the weekend of April 10-12. The opening round will be the first of five race weekends on the support bill of the GT World Challenge Europe series. Round two of the year will once more cross the border to Italy, details of which will be unveiled in due course.

A cornerstone of the Lamborghini Super Trofeo Europe calendar since its inception is the iconic Spa-Francorchamps circuit in Belgium which, in 2026, will again host the middle round of the season on the final weekend in June. The Ardennes venue proved historic in 2025, when Lamborghini achieved a memorable maiden victory in the Spa 24 Hours with the Huracán GT3 EVO2 courtesy of Grasser Racing Team's Mirko Bortolotti, Luca Engstler and Jordan Pepper.

Following the summer break, the series returns to the picturesque Nürburgring on the last weekend in August (28-30). The continental championship will then travel to Barcelona on the weekend of October 2-4 for the penultimate round of the year before the season finale and traditional end-of-year Lamborghini World Finals, the date and location of which are yet to be announced.

Lamborghini Super Trofeo Asia

Celebrating its 12th edition in 2026, the Lamborghini Super Trofeo Asia season will return to the Sepang International Circuit for its season opener; the Malaysian venue has often been the traditional curtain raiser and will start the campaign on the weekend of April 24-26. From there, a month later, the series heads back to Thailand for the first time since 2018, with the Buriram circuit rejoining the calendar.

Another regular fixture on the Super Trofeo Asia calendar is Fuji in Japan, which will host round three of the year on the weekend of June 19-21, before making the trip across the Sea of Japan to Inje Speedium in South Korea for the fourth round.

The Shanghai International Circuit in China will host the final round on Asia soil in early September before the crews make their way to the final round of the year, in conjunction with the Lamborghini World Finals.

Lamborghini Super Trofeo North America

First launched in 2013, Lamborghini Super Trofeo North America has proven to be one of the most popular one-make championships in the continent and will begin its 14th edition once more on the support bill of the 12 Hours of Sebring in March. Five of the six rounds will take place in association with the IMSA WeatherTech Sports Car Championship, renewing the long-standing collaboration between IMSA and Lamborghini Squadra Corse.

In early May, the series heads to the West Coast again with round two taking place at Laguna Seca, a venue which has featured on every North American calendar since 2014. The series then travels back across the country to Upstate New York for round three at the historic Watkins Glen circuit, supporting the 6 Hours of the Glen IMSA endurance race.

Reconvening after the summer pause, Road America kicks off the second half of the season; the challenging Wisconsin venue will host two 50-minute races on the opening weekend of August while Indianapolis again takes its place on the calendar in September ahead of the final round of the year.
